

The National Garden Scheme was founded in 1927 to help fund the essential work of district nurses. Ninety years on, our volunteers continue to raise money for a group of national charities that includes Macmillan Cancer Support. We help ordinary people open their extraordinary gardens to raise impressive amounts of money through admissions, teas and slices of cake. Thanks to our supporters, we've donated nearly £25 million in the last 10 years alone! Many of our gardens also open by arrangement, don't be afraid to contact them direct to arrange a personal visit for groups or individuals.
